DRAWING OF NEW BUILDING FOR THE GIRL SCOUTS IN THIS AREA OF VIRGINIA

Its design is known as Rustic Modern. It will be 26' x 88' in overall dimensions, and on two levels. The ground floor will provide a bunk area, showers and storage. On the main floor there will be a dining room adjacent to kitchen facilities. At one end there will be an outdoor fireplace complete with a grille for outdoor cooking. The Dining Room area will also be used for instruction and recreation purposes.

It will enable the Scout Leaders to expand their program and more nearly give the girls the benefit of valuable training provided by a complete course in Scout education.

FOREST FIRE DANGER IS MOUNTING

Virginia Division of Forestry foresters are becoming increasingly concerned over the dry weather of the past few weeks. They say that the rainless days of early May are making the danger of forest fires greater than at any time during 1957. Normally, the most serious fire danger is early spring, with a gradual decrease in the danger as the forests and fields become green. Not so this year, say foresters.

Excessive rain during March and April reduced the number of fires to a near record low, but, they say, the good fire record could be spoiled by late spring and early summer fires if rain does not

In FASHION Now

The current fashion trend is toward more delicate and alluring tones and styles in both makeup and clothes. The modern woman's goal is to become more feminine.

The leading beauticians of the day prescribe longer, more luxuriant hair. A too casual or careless hairdo can rob a woman of femininity. Even the most sophosticated hair styles feature deep-set waves.

The new summer look in makeup gives a delicate look and plays up a natural-looking beauty. Skin tones must be delicate with just a suggestion of rouge. Subtle eye make-up is suggested. Lipstick is bright in contract.

The degp tan, so popular with the teen-age crowd, is definitely not fashionable. Woman are at last beginning to realize that a tan is not as pretty to look at as a pink and white complexion. Also, sun is very aging to the skin.

A comfortable collection of sumper underthings is very important. Cotton is cooler than nylon, so it would be a good idea to have several changes of cotton from the skin out. The new drip-dry cottons are as easy to care for as nylon.

Stockings are always necessary if you want your legs to look their best. Try the "just above the knee" length for cool comfort. They are made on garters and elminate the need for a girdle or garter belt.

Experts forecast a slight rise in business.

SOIL SIDEDRESSING INCREASES PRODUCTION

Don't let the lack of nitrogen limit your corn yields this year.

Agronomists at VPI say an 80-bushel per acre crop removes about 112 pounds of nitrogen from the soil. There must be considerably more than this amount in the soil or the corn crop cannot take what it needs.

On fine-textured or clayey soils, apply nitrogen sidedressing by the time the corn is 12 to 18 inches high. On coarse - textured or sandy soils, sidedress with nitrogen throughout the period of cultivation. On any soil, if the corn turns pale green or yellowish up to the time of silking, make an application of readily available nitrogen.

During early stages of growth, any of the commonly used sources of nitrogen are satisfactory for sidedressing. Later applications, particularly those made just before the corn starts to tassel, should be a readily available or nitrate form.

Health and Beauty

Beautifully-arched eyebrows accentuate the loveliness of your face. They are often called nature's character lines. A good natural contour is a blessing.

It is possible to make the eyes seem larger by plucking the wandering hairs from under the brow, and by arching the brow directly above the center of the iris.

Most women find it necessary to add a bit of pencil to their eyebrows. Follow the natural line of your brow and stay away from any false, exaggerated look.

Choose a color suited to your natural coloring. Beware of the brown shades that too often appear red when applied.

For evening it is fun to add a touch of color - eye-shadow and mascara - to give emphasis and drama.

If brow and lashes appear too light for your other coloring, you can have them dyed. This is a simple process you can even do yourself at home. Follow directions carefully. About once every four weeks the job must be repeated.

COMMENT ON SPORTS

By Pete Fritchie

Washington.- Gene Fullmer and millions of boxing fans were not ready for the medicine Sugar Ray Robinson dished up the other night in winning back his middleweight crown — and preserving his record of never having lost two in a row to the same fighter.

Fullmer was the favorite, of course. But Robinson still has enough ring savvy to turn the tide with a sensational left hook in the fifth. After the fight there were many who said a right preceded the left and took its toll as surely as did the left. With this we do not agree.

Itwas that left that did it. Like the night Joe Walcott knocked out Ezzard Charles in the middle of their fight and became champion. And like the night Joe Louis caught Walcott, or the night Rocky Marciano caught Joe in the 13th. It was one of those sudden-death punches.

Set up maybe it was. But ther, in another sence, the victim had to cooperate, too. In Fullmer's case, he was a little careless. Even though he's over 35, and not what he used to be, Sugar Ray is still dangerous, given an opening, especially in the early rounds before he's taken much of a midsection pounding Fullmer gave him that opening.

It takes an alert fighter to take advantage of it so neatly. The marvelous thing about Sugar Ray is that his reflexes are still good enough to get him home. His left hook that stunned and defeated Fullmer was not the fastest left he ever threw, but it may well have been the most timely. And it was fast enough to get the mesage over.

Contrary to what some may write, we don't think Sugar Ray planned his whole fight for this one opening. It came along and Robinson seized the opportunity. It's just one of those things.

OUTDOOR LIGHTING

By Audrey S. Robinson
Home Economist
Virginia Electric & Power Co.

Are you and your family going on a picnic Memorial Day? Or have you decided like so many other wise Americans that your family's lives are safer at home during a holiday? If you have decided to stay at home, don't let the holiday spirit drag by becoming just another day —really have a memorable holiday at home. Plan a party. If you have a small family, invite some friends and neighbors to add to the festivity.

Your wife can plan the food so it can be eaten out of doors, picnic style, perhaps planning foods that can be barbecued on that newly built pit.

The kids can plan the entertainment and whether you know it or not, those kids of yours are "right bright" on ideas for decorations for the back yard or patio.

And how can YOU contribute to the Holiday Fun? Well Pop, you can contribute by being "right bright" and lighting up your outdoor living area. Expand the hospitality and comfort of terarces and porches by bringing your indoor lighting to the out of doors. You can provide quick sure seeing at entrances and on drives or walkways to safeguard friends against possible accident and discourage trespassing. Outdoor lighting is planned to add hours for yard work or other chores, taking advantage of the cooler evening hours and revealing the beauty of gardens after dark — bring them into the night-time picture for new acclaim and longer hours of indoor-outdoor enjoyment. So what does this have to do with your picnic? It can increase the hours of outdoor play, be it dancing, card games, or sports, it will encourage more fun in family life at home.
